A TIMETABLE CLOCK

A new clock to show when cars are due has been installed on suburban lines of the street railway system of Metz, Germany. The lower half of the dial of this clock is divided into numbers representing the minutes between cars. For instance a conductor sets the dial to point to ten minutes and the clock then tells waiting passengers that the next car to the city leaves in ten minutes. A regular clock which is part of the mechanism moves the dial along so that it reduces the minutes indicated until the time of arrival of the car. If for any reason the car does not arrive within two minutes of the time set the dial automatically points to "out of service."—Electric Railway Journal.

French military authorities have opened the first section, 135 miles long, of a railroad in Algeria which eventually will cross the Sahara desert.

INVESTMENT IN TRIPOLI

Though the splendid developments which Italy is projecting in Tripoli are to Italy's credit, it must be borne in mind that they are also to Italy's credit. France needed more than 40 years to pacify Algeria. Italy will undoubtedly be put to no little embarrassment and heavy expense before Tripoli's pacification is assured, but the conditions do not warrant their prolongation as in the Algerian conquest. Yet it has taken more than three-fourths of a century for France to see some actual returns on her Algerian venture. The wild desert tribes and Arabs will eventually understand that their interests are side by side with the Italians. Then a new era of peace, wealth and prosperity will open up, at least for the Arabs, for Tripolitania-Libya cannot be expected to yield a commercial profit into Italy's pocket when we consider that Tunisia, next door, has been an insatiable abyss into which France has poured millions in capital.—World's Work.

A 7-year-old boy and his brother went to the barber's to have a haircut. When they came home the little fellow took his cap off and, running his hand across the back of his head, said, "Gee, but my head feels lonesome."

People are so much alike in this praise that by finding fault with one you hit a thousand.
